Basmati Continuing The Indian Heritage of AROMA & TASTE

The origins of Basmati rice can be traced back to the Indian subcontinent, specifically the Himalayan foothills. The name "Basmati" is derived from the Sanskrit word "Vasmati," meaning "fragrant" or "perfumed." For centuries, Basmati rice has been cultivated in the Indo-Gangetic Plain, where the unique combination of soil, climate, and water creates the perfect conditions for its growth.

Basmati rice is an integral part of Indian cuisine, renowned for its distinctive nutty flavor and aroma. This long-grain rice has been a staple in Indian households for centuries, and its popularity has only grown with time. The grains of Basmati are longer and free flowing when cooked rather than being sticky.

Basmati rice has fantabulous qualities that make it unprecedented and different from any other rice. Its elegance after cooking makes it a rare delicacy. For centuries, pulao and biryani have been global choices when prepared with exquisitely identified Basmati rice. Even a connoisseur can't dare to challenge the taste of slender and sleek Basmati, which is grown in the foothills of Himalayas and fed by under ground pious water of northern India, thrived under the specific conditions and temperature of day and night. Its delicacy is the reason why it's crowned the king of rice.

Basmati rice is unforgettable in taste, delicacy and aroma making it the splendor of the global palate. After tasting our Basmati, no global plate would like to miss it. Incredible India's yield provide sun bridled joy with in her ited natural fragrance in it. It would not be exaggeration to call it the queen off ragrances. Basmati rice has a fine perfumed flavor with long and sleek grains. its perfumed kernel-like flavor and odor can be attributed to the fact that the grain is ripened to diminish its moisture content. When it becomes fit for human consumption, it swells only length wise, resulting in long, slender grains that are a rid, split and feathery. Basmati rice is no doubt unbeatable in competition, stands at its unique and unprecedented place forever. Love for delicacies, aroma and taste prompted our company to enter the Basmati market.

Let's Get Introduced to A Dynamic Organization

Late Sh. Panna Lal Gupta Ji

Only few in millions can have a clear vision and can visualize a crystal-clear picture of the future.

Late Sh. Panna Lal Gupta Ji was gritty to provide the eminence in the quality of rice to the common man on an affordable price. His dreams flew on the plumes of reality in the year 1969 with the emergence of Bharat Rice and Oil Mills which later evolved into Bharat Cereals Private Limited (BCPL) in the year 2010 with a state-of-the-art factory situated at (Taraori, Karnal), just over 125 KM. from the capital of India withstanding the fact that Taraori, is known as hub of the premium Basmati rice.

However, the urge of reaching to the heart of the people was not yet satisfied and organization went one step ahead by adopting hi-tech resources. No stone was left unturned to transform a miniature organization into a dynamic one and a congenial atmosphere was upheld to maintain the standards which an organization requires for the global market. The company grew by leaps and bounds; spreading its wings far and wide by taking the courageous step of going global with a bang into highly competitive export market, company took the foreign markets by storm. Established in 2010, we've achieved remarkable growth with a turnover of figure of USD $ 80 million in (2023-24). We beam with sheer pride to inform that our efforts were praised by government of India and we were recognized as a 3-star export house, a distinction enjoyed by a selected few in the country. At present, we are working on making ourselves more noted among prospective customers by consistently supplying enhanced quality of Basmati Rice and others.

BCPL is also bestowed with the internationally coveted ISO 22000-2018, HACCP, GMP, Kosher, Halal & IPQC for its unparalleled quality adopted at every stage of production.
